

Thomas J. Gilbert, Jr., M.D., M.P.P., is a spine radiologist at Center for Diagnostic Imaging (CDI). After graduating from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, he received an M.P.P. in Health Policy and Management from Harvard University's Kennedy School of Government and a medical degree from Harvard Medical School. During this period, he also consulted on health policy and management for the Commission of Elderly Affairs and the Massachusetts General Hospital.

He completed an internal medicine internship at the University of Kentucky Medical Center, a diagnostic radiology residency at Stanford University Medical Center, and an MRI fellowship at the University of California, San Francisco.

Before joining CDI, Dr. Gilbert served as Assistant Professor of Orthopedic Radiology at the University of Minnesota Hospitals and Clinics in Minneapolis.

Dr. Gilbert has published numerous articles and book chapters on spine, body, and orthopedic imaging. His professional affiliations include the International Spine Injection Society, Radiological Society of North America, American College of Radiology, the Minnesota Radiological Society, and North American Spine Society.

